MAKING HEADWAY WITH HAIDER

Haider studies in grade 7 and hails from Lucknow. His father used to work in Saudi Arabia and that was his means of providing for his family's expenses. His father aspired to send his children to quality institutions however, his demise and subsequent financial conditions took a hit. In order to make ends meet, Haider's mother started working as a saleswoman in a shop making it difficult to keep up with Haider's educational expenses. Alhumdulillah, with the group's help Haider is continuing his education in the same school, fulfilling his father's dream of giving quality education to his child.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

"And We will surely test you with something of fear and hunger and a loss of wealth and lives and fruits, but give good tidings to the patient,

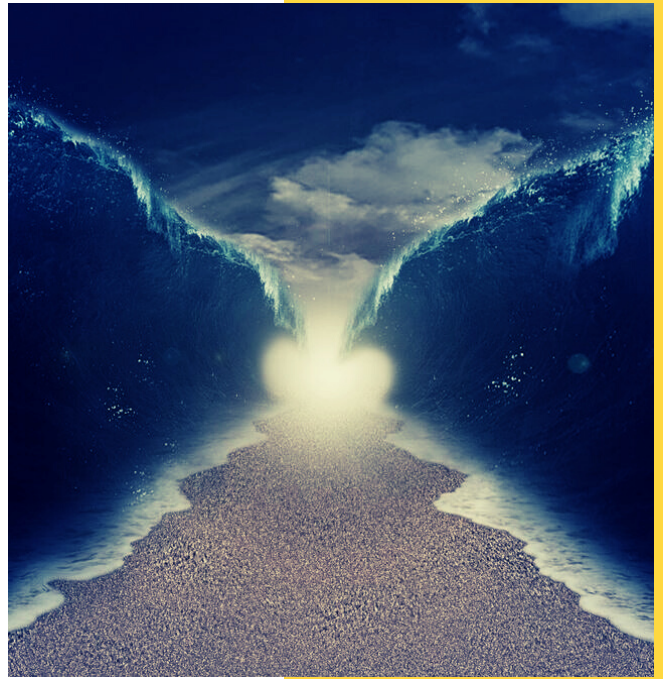

Who, when disaster strikes them, say, "Indeed we belong to Allah, and indeed to Him we will return."

Those are the ones upon whom are blessings from their Lord and mercy. And it is those who are the [rightly] guided."

Surah Baqarah V155-157 Sahih International

MUSA AS AND THE POWER OF FAITH

One of the most frequently mentioned prophets in the Quran, the story of Musa AS is a story of guidance and optimism. The significance of Ashura is based on how Musa AS and his people were saved from the Firaun. However, it so happens that amongst the many of us, that is all the story of Musa As will ever be. This would be a great time to reflect on some lessons that Musa As life has left us. If you've read our previous article then you'll notice one common element between the stories. It is that of Tawakkal-complete trust in Allah SWT. Musa's AS story begins with that of extraordinary Tawakkul in Allah SWT, it begins with his mother putting him in a basket only for it to drift away with the river and rely on Allah SWT. Musa AS is carried downriver and his basket stops at the very palace of Pharaoh. From all the places it could have ended up, Allah SWT decreed for it to come to this house. Not only this, but Pharaoh and his wife Asiya would end up adopting Musa AS. This despite Pharaoh knowing his demise would be at the hands of an Israelite boy. After all, this was the whole reason behind massacring all of their newborn sons as a part of the prophecy. Yet, he was powerless to do anything to this baby. This is an amazing story. Not only does it show us Allah SWT's powers and abilities, and the wisdom of His divine decree in all affairs, it also shows us the power of optimism in trusting Allah SWT. Such is Allah SWT's power and might, the strongest of people on earth at that time could not harm a helpless baby who is in his grasp. Musa's AS mother in the middle of an extreme set of circumstances placed her reliance upon Allah SWT, knowing that He would always do what is best for her and her son. Imagine how difficult this must have been for a mother with her newborn son. Imagine her panic and terror. And then, look at the strength of her faith and trust in Allah SWT. In the most heart wrenching and trying of situations, she is calm and collected. The splitting of the red sea is not just an ordinary part of Musa's AS extraordinary journey, rather one of the many defining moments not just for him as a prophet but for his people who were saved along with him as well. Standing at the shores of what seems like a limitless horizon facing the tyrant who is dead set on capturing them is not a situation many of us would want to be in. Oddly enough, it does bear some semblance to an ongoing battle many of our Muslim brothers and sisters face in war-torn areas today. In a subtle way it suggests, that despite all odds, there will always be a way out. That hope is the incandescence which comes from the candle of faith
