To uplift and transform the Muslim society from their educational poverty in the light of true knowledge which leads one back to Allah

PEARLS OF WISDOM

Mujahid narrated that Ibn 'Umar said: "The Messenger of Allah (saw) grabbed me on part of my body and said: 'Be in the world like a stranger or a passerby, and count yourself among the inhabitants of the grave.'" Ibn 'Umar said to me: " When you wake up in the morning, then do not concern yourself with the evening. And when you reach the evening, then do not concern yourself with the morning. Take from your health before your illness, and from your life before your death, for indeed O slave of Allah! You do not know what your description shall be tomorrow. "

IRAM'S HUSTLE

Iram Naaz is pursuing her twelfth grade(Biology) from Hera Eng. Sr. Secondary School, Jaipur, Rajasthan. Her father was bedridden for years and passed away recently. Her mother was the only breadwinner of the family. She used to provide tuition services. Her mothers iddat is now completed and she is trying to find a stable job. With a passion for studying medicine, Iram is preparing for NEET as she also prepares for her boards this year. She has received funds amounting to 16k as her yearly fee and is progressing with her studies through the turbulent times of her life. We are also supporting her younger brother, Ayan, who is in eighth grade.

KNOWING YOURSELF

By Bint Mohammad

Our world is a beautiful place and Islam encourages us to appreciate the marvels of Allah SWT in the nature around us. A mere imagery of rolling valleys, flowing rivers and breezing wind brightens us up.

What's more intriguing is that man himself can sometimes make more sense of his outer environment than he can understand his own self. I want to avoid stress, but I keep repeating the same mistakes. I want to make healthy food choices, but I am always on the hunt for junk food. I want to be more organized but I'm persistently wasting time. Why do I keep doing so, why can't I change myself?

Let's explore it's remedy in the Qur'an.

Allah SWT says in Surah Hashr verse 19, "And do not be like those who forgot Allah, so Allah made them forget themselves. Those are the fasiq (defiantly disobedient)."

Two lessons to take from this verse:

1) According to Dr. Yasir Qadhi, forgetting oneself means losing the perspective of our long-term goals and constantly catering to our short-term desires. It is a state of acting against our better judgement or lack of self-control. Eating that dessert may be fulfilling now but disastrous in the long run. Tapping on the next video is the easiest thing to do now but it can make us toil later in its recompense for wasting time.

2) Who is a Fasiq?

A fasiq is someone who relies on his logic and sensual desires to regard something as right or wrong. "If it feels right, then it can't be wrong" is a very well received statement. Clearly, we have not created ourselves and we do not know what is best for us and what is not meant for us except that which has been taught by Allah SWT in His book and that which was taught to Prophet Muhammad SAWS.

Allah SWT says in the Qur'an in Surah Muddaththir verse 54, "Enough, surely this Quran is a reminder."

As to say, this Qur'an is enough as a guidance and as an aid. But why do we fail to get solutions to our problems?

Reducing the Qur'an to a book of anecdotes of prophets or to depictions of heaven and hell is a grave mistake. It talks to each one of us in the most relevant ways and it is a miracle enough to fall in love with the book of Allah SWT.

It holds answers to questions like what holds my best interest, what makes us happy or make us feel dejected, how to behave maturely in different circumstances etc. If someone is asked to find their best interest in the Qur'an, it might seem like an obvious exaggeration but it is NOT impractical.

Sheikh Qasmi says, Qur'an only discloses its secrets to a friend who has offered his heart to the Qur'an, to the one who has earnest eyes and a yearning heart.

In it is mention of our creation, how human nature was designed, our innate abilities, challenges, inclinations, repulsion, vices and virtues, the journey of man.

Allah SWT says in Surah Anbiya verse 10, "without a doubt we have sent to you all the Qur'an in it is your mention, then will you not reason?"

In Surah Muhammad, verse 24 Allah SWT says, "Do they not ponder over the Qur'an or are there locks upon their hearts?" In Surah Zumar, verse 28 "(It is) Qur'an, revealed in Arabic, without crookedness so perhaps they will be conscious of Allah."

The Qur'an is a guidance, mercy, miracle, a sign, solution, help, answer to questions and our rescue on the day of judgement; only if we're willing to embrace it.

The Aftermath

According to a Mufasssir, we do not understand the message of the Qur'an because we fail to make time for it from the productive hours of the day, we tend to only give whatever we can spare from our worldly matters or maybe nothing at all, May Allah SWT not make us of them.

In Surah Furqaan, verse 30 Words of Prophet Muhammad SAWS have been recorded as follows: 'Oh my Lord my nation has taken this Qur'an as a forsaken thing'

The Tafseer of this verse says that Prophet Muhammad SAWS is going to complain about those who do not read, understand, implement and align their actions according to the Qur'an.

Prophets of Allah SWT are the most benevolent specifically our Prophet Muhammad SAWS, to abandon the Qur'an is to overtax him and to wear him out to the extent that he complains against us to Allah SWT on the day of judgement and the magnitude of such a loss where Prophet Muhammad SAWS testifies against us as culprits, is unfathomable.
